ECONOMY IN COAL.

Puchuan Lump Coal is the best for use in Hong Kong. It is a large percentage of pure coal, which is practically waste-free. The dust in PUCHUAN Lump is so fine as to be blown away by the wind. Puchuan Lump coal burns brightly and is therefore a decided economy.

ERSKINE CHILDERS.

RENEGADE ENGLISHMAN EXECUTED.

REBEL MILITARY BRAIN.

LONDON, November 24.

Erskine Childers has been executed.

DOMINATED DE VALERA.

LONDON, November 24.

The execution of the renegade Englishman Erskine Childers who is generally believed to have dominated De Valera and was the military brain of the rebel movement was the result of a secret court martial in Dublin whose decision Erskine Childers' counsel vainly endeavored to upset by applying for a writ of habeas corpus in the civil courts of Dublin.

SECRET TRIAL.

LONDON, November 24.

Erskine Childers was executed at seven o'clock this morning. He is believed to have been shot. The official army report states that Childers was tried by a military court at the Portobello Barracks, Dublin, on November 17 on a charge of possessing an automatic pistol without proper authority when apprehended by the National forces on November 10 at Annamoe House in County Wicklow. He was found guilty and sentenced to death.

ABORTIVE IRREGULAR ATTACKS.

The belief that Childers would be executed led to heavy abortive attacks by irregulars on National army posts in Dublin last night.

In Dublin there has been a sensation over the execution, some approving and some disapproving.

DE VALERA'S THREAT.

It is recalled that De Valera recently threatened bloodshed if Childers was executed.

It is believed Childers dominated De Valera and was the military brain of the rebel movement.

FREE STATE BILLS.

LONDON, November 24.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Bonar Law introduced the Irish Free State Constitutional Bill and the Irish Free State Consequential Provisions Bill which were formally read the first time.

NEW CALIPH.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 24.

The new Caliph was invested without incident.

COMMONS DIVISION.

LIBERALS VOTE WITH LABOUR.

GOVERNMENT RESIGN.

LONDON, November 24.

The first division of the new Parliament took place this afternoon when a motion by Mr. Bonar Law empowering the Government to take all the time of the House in the present session for Government business was carried by 239 to 135 votes.

The Labour members opposed the motion. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald said the Labour members did not object to the quickest possible despatch of the Irish Bill, but other questions, for example matters in connection with the Lausanne conference, might require discussion.

LOYD GEORGE NEUTRAL.

LONDON, November 24.

In the House of Commons the Liberals voted with the Labour members against Mr. Bonar Law's motion. Some National Liberals supported the Government and others abstained. Mr. Lloyd George did not vote.

BAVARIAN OUTRAGE.

BRITISH OFFICER INJURED.

BERLIN, November 24.

A British and a French officer belonging to the Inter-Allied Control Commission, who arrived at Ingolstadt in Bavaria to inspect ammunition depots were attacked with clubs and stones by a band of civilians hiding in the vicinity.

The British officer was injured in the face. The crowd closed the station gates to prevent the officers' car from escaping and threatened the chauffeur with death when he attempted to start the engine.

WASHINGTON AGREEMENT.

FRANCE'S ATTITUDE UNCERTAIN.

NEW YORK, November 24.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent, referring to M. Leygues' alleged statement, says the Government's attitude point to France's early ratification of the naval pact.

The New York American alone refers to the probability of the Government asking whether M. Leygues' attitude is the policy of M. Poincare.

BARON BONNINO.

SIMPLE FUNERAL.

ROME, November 24.

Distinguished callers at the residence of the late Baron Sonnino included the King and Signor Mussolini.

In accordance with the deceased's wishes, the funeral to-morrow will be of the simplest character.

DANISH PRINCESS MARRIED.

KING'S YOUNGEST SISTER.

COPENHAGEN, November 24.

Princess Dagmar, youngest sister of the King, has married Lieutenant Joergen Castenskiold, a member of the Royal household.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"SUI AN" PIRACY.

Sir.—In view of the piracy of the "Sui An," may I make a possible suggestion.

Recently a number of ex-air service men desired to form an air force in the Colony, and I understand approached the government with regard to their being equipped with the necessary aeroplane.

Apart from the valuable service they would perform, in the event of any military action, how useful such a machine would have been in the spotting of the "Sui An."

With a speed of 80 to 150 miles an hour it could have covered all the waters in the vicinity in a very short time, and being fitted with wireless been able to have informed the government, and a fast warship sent to the exact spot immediately.

Yours, etc.,

OTSMAR.

Hongkong, November 24.

My Debt of Gratitude.

'Ulcers the Size of Man's Hand.'

Our Porting is of Mr. G. M. THOMPSON, of 4, Midland Grove, Edward Road, Ballinacree, Birmingham, England, who writes:—

"In July last I happened to get a search on my leg. It was so slight I took no notice of it till a fortnight later when I found it had become a serious matter. It gradually grew worse, when it turned septic; from this period I had from time to time lengthy sores turned into ulcers.
I had at that particular time ulcers the size of a man's hand covering my leg. After I had tried nearly everything I read about your Clarke's Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swell-ings, Rheumatism, and other blood diseases, I can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impurities which cause such troubles.
Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and casts out the impurities that slowly poison the system, and stand in the way of the recuperative power of the body. I have taken it, and feel from any further troubles. I am a free man now, and I feel that I owe my life to Clarke's Blood Mixture. I owe my life to Clarke's Blood Mixture."Clarke's Blood Mixture
"Everybody's Blood Purifier."Crosse & Blackwell's Flavouring EssencesThe experienced cook knows that the flavouring is the making of the meringue of a dish. It is wise, therefore, to use only those essences produced by Crosse & Blackwell, the firm with over 200 years reputation for excellence in all culinary matters. Crosse & Blackwell supply nearly 30 varieties of flavouring essences suitable for every kind of sweet or savouryCrosse & Blackwell, Ltd.
21 SOHO SQUARE LONDON W. 1.

THE DIRTIEST TOWNS.

LONDON AND MANCHESTER SMOKE COMPARED.

Why is Manchester smoke, Professor A. E. Boycott has been asking, so much worse than London smoke? Dr. J. S. Owens superintendent of the work of the Advisory Committee on Atmospheric Pollution, answering this question, in an interview with a representative of the Observer, said:—

"Manchester smoke, as a matter of fact, is not worse than London smoke in the sense mentioned by Professor Boycott, namely, that 'it seems to contain more very fine sticky particles' but it is worse in the sense that the total deposit of impurities is much greater."

The only thing that makes smoke sticky is tar, which is found in much greater quantity in domestic than in industrial furnaces smoke, and the percentage of tar in Manchester smoke is considerably less than that in London smoke."

Manchester has not published complete records in recent years, but going back to 1916, Dr. Owens found, according to observations taken at eight stations in each city, the following to be the mean average monthly deposit of impurities in metric tons per square kilometre:—

London, Manchester.

Solids (tar, soot, grit, etc.) 14.7 25.9
Tar only 0.13 0.6
Percentage of tar 0.9 0.4

From the observations made in various towns in 1919, Dr. Owens gave the following corresponding figures of deposits of atmospheric impurities of all kinds:—

Manchester, 15.16 Rochdale, 30.28
London 11.12. Cambridge 10.87
Glasgow 12.62 Southport, 7.17
Newcastle 17.28

"London," he said, "has improved even more since those observations were taken for the corresponding figures for 1920 and for the year ending March 31 last were respectively 9.9 and 9.24. Here smoke is watched very carefully. The authorities will not allow volumes of black smoke to be expelled from factory chimneys. It is true we have a lot of domestic chimneys, but there is no doubt that London has been taking itself in hand and purifying its air in recent years."

London air to-day in fact, compares not unfavourably with that in the country. Tests which have been made recently with a new instrument show that country air is by no means so pure as it is generally supposed to be. So far, indeed, from being quite pure, country air is freely charged with the dust of cities, which is borne to it by almost every breeze that blows, to that after northerly winds even Brighton may get some of that nasty Manchester smoke of which Professor Boycott complains.

"CUDDLING GIRLS."

LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

A CLERGYMAN'S COMPLAINT.

That stewards were too busy

cuddling girls on the deck to attend to their duties, was one of the many charges laid by a clergyman who travelled by the Commonwealth line

"Moreton Bay" on her recent trip to Australia.

So serious were the charges made that the management ordered an inquiry, and an official report was is-

ued. The clergyman asserted, amongst other things, that not more than six passengers were provided with water with which to wash

in their cabins; that after a few days

everybody on board had a partner, and that there was much flirting;

that girls had a habit of running into the officers' cabins; that on one occasion his (the clergyman's) partner in a deck game had disappeared, and he found her in an officer's cabin too full of ginger beer to play again; that in the tropics a passenger changed into his pyjamas on deck in front of several women.

The report on these charges, either minimises or entirely disposes them, and further suggests that the complainant was not quite as popular as he might have been with the ship's company. One of the ship's officers said that the person was ostracised by 90 per cent. of those aboard. He is alleged to have made objectionable remarks against certain officers during the Sunday service, and to have said things calculated to cause dissatisfaction between the crew and officers.

The charges of lax conduct as between the sexes were not sustained, and it is stated that the pyjama man's easy-going methods were stopped

as soon as reported.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, Nov. 25, 1932.

WHERE FLIES have expressed less than a week ago

THE HOLLY ROVER had you perchance overheard anyone anxious to awe the newcomer, enlarging upon the pirate penit, not of the upper West River, not of the stormy interior, but of a prosaic Macao Sunday excursion steamer. After this I shall listen with polite respect when I hear anyone painting the pirate terrors of the Star ferry, the Poki tramway—or Broker's Alley.

WHISPER AND I break the camel's back. Water drops are little things but enough will make the torrent rage. Combine all the whispers heard above the music during the local opera season and you will have a shout that would have brought the walls of Jericho down. Makes one's blood boil, it does.

A "certain party" who confesses he sometimes reads sermons, sends me the following quotation from a Home paper:

"I should like to know what the churches are doing to save sinners from profane-breaking the traffic laws, bootlegging, and booting. I should like to know, also, how far they think they are succeeding in saving the souls of men and women from the spiritual meaneriness of sin and every scandal mongering, bitterness and jealousy, how far they think they are succeeding in saving mankind with the charity life, for the pirates shot him dead that saunteth not itself and is not galled."

Which reminds me of the famous Mr. Dooley's sapient utterance: "Whenever I read in a sermon that the world is going to pot, that the foundations in government is threatened, that the whole fabric of civilisation is in danger, that humanity is on the down grade and morality is blinking, that men are becoming drunkards, an' women gamblers, and that the future of the race is destruction I can always console myself with what I thought—"What's that?" inquired Mr. Hennessey. "It isn't so," said Mr. Dooley.

"A passenger, seeing the stand of arms at the top of the companion, made some remark about it to the Captain, who replied with a smile. 'They are a relic of the past; years ago we used to want them, but we don't ever require them now.' Within an hour of speaking these words he was lying murdered in his cabin."

How grimly this extract from the "Namoo" piracy report reads now, after the "Sui An" outrage. "Years ago we used to want them, but we don't ever require them now"—the "Namoo" was pirated over thirty years ago. And the chronicler added "The news of the tragedy [when this Douglas steamer was pirated the Captain and one of the quartermasters were fatally shot and several officers were wounded] has struck with the more force inasmuch as the attacks of pirates on European ships, and especially attacks of such a bloodthirsty character and attended with such dire results, have come to be looked upon as things of the past." And that, I repeat, was over thirty years ago.

Incidentally, the HISTORY REPEATING fared even worse than the "Sui An's." The attack was made when the ship was five hours out from Hongkong. The passenger had sat down to tiffin when the pirates seized the ship in four parts simultaneously. One of the passengers, feeling unwell, and every scandal mongering, bitterness and jealousy, how far they think they are succeeding in saving mankind with the charity life, for the pirates shot him dead that saunteth not itself and is not galled."

After a paper the Communist are held gathering at the Bay of the Gilded Chamber. Dropping on one knee, the Lord Chancellor hands the King a saloon. The leader, who spoke English, ordered the captain to come on deck, promising him he would escape unhurt. Before he could reach the deck, however, he was shot through the right breast. He managed to stagger to his cabin and died there an hour later. The passengers rushed to their cabins and locked themselves in. Failing to get them out, the pirates promised not to harm them if they would assemble in the captain's cabin. When all this was over, the captain had been imprisoned here, after receiving very rough treatment, the cabin was nailed up with spar and a cask was stationed outside. Here they remained prisoners for eight years, and their sufferings as described by one of the party were nothing less than terrible. "The cabin was only an ordinary sized one and into this were huddled eleven persons one, the unfortunate Captain, soon becoming a corpse. To the anxiety of mind caused by the uncertainty of their fate and the dying agonies of their ill-fated companion were added the physical sufferings consequent on the want of fresh air, the unfortunate prisoners not being allowed to open a window even to allow of ventilation." The pirates got away with over $20,000 worth of booty, but it is comforting to recall that seven of them were caught by the Chinese authorities and executed at Kowloon City two months later. Let us hope history will repeat itself in this last respect—tenfold.

A noted actor has written that "the height of bad manners is to be rude to servants." I wonder just how many Hongkong people would fall before this test. He also observes: "Few decent men swear."

Hongkong now has many buildings which any city might envy, but some tenants appear to have very little civic pride.

The finest building can be disfigured with the ugliest sign. The appearance presented by the doorway of Queen's Road's latest building is (mildly) an offence. Surely it is possible to give the name and indicate the position of an upstairs office without spoiling the dignity of a beautiful building?

Hongkong's nameboard makers appear to lack enterprise woefully or tenants have no souls above a few dollars. Which is it?

Quoting Mrs. Patrick Campbell's dedication of her book last week, I have moved a reader to send me a copy of the lines Mark Twain had cut in the modest block of marble which marks the resting place of his wife in the cemetery at New York. The lines have nothing to do with books, but my correspondent wishes me to reprint them as they have a rare beauty. That is ample reason and here they are:

Warm summer sun, Shine kindly here, Warm Southern wind, Blow softly here, Green and above, Lie light, lie light, Good night, good heart, Good night, good night.

The "Sui An" piracy has brought the usual flood of comment, most of it harmless enough but some really mischievous. Of course there are several points which require the closest scrutiny, but to discuss these before the inquiry court has delivered its findings is more than futile, more than foolish. Mostly it is actually harmful and certainly grossly unfair.

WITH THE Queen opened Parliament in state ceremonial, this morning with the usual ceremonial.

monial." With these fourteen words Reuter yesterday dismissed one of the most picturesque pageants left in these material times. Long before their Majesties arrive the peers have gathered in their velvet and ermine robes. Before the vanguard golden thrones gather the judges in ermine cloaks and flowing wigs; to the right and left are the white-robed bishops and the ambassadors in gold-laced coats. Through the open doors Gentlemen of the Bedchamber are seen leaning on tall halberds. "The ceremony is a flourish of trumpets. Their Majesties appear. The lights live up and the diamonds gather new flames. The House of Peers rises to its feet as the King and Queen, hand in hand, bow gravely and slowly mount to the throne. Little pages in Court dress, with tiny swords pointing straight through their velvet coat tails, swiftly arrange the royal trains. Bismarck, Poincaré, Rouce Croix Pursuivant, Potemkin, Rurikoff and the four heralds stand grouped about the throne as the King, through the Lord Great Chamberlain, reads the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, to summon the faithful Commons."

After a paper the Communist are held gathering at the Bay of the Gilded Chamber. Dropping on one knee, the Lord Chancellor hands the King a thick parchment. The King reads. And then it is all over. The King offering the Queen his hand, "His Majesties leave the Chamber, heavy trains borne by the little page. Parliament has been opened "with the usual ceremonial."

MODERN PIRACY AND DREAMING PIRACY. It is timely to recall the most amazing piracy in modern times. This took place miles away from China forty-two years ago this very month. Posing as a relative of Mr. W. H. Smith, the then First Lord of the Admiralty, "a certain Mr. Smith" chartered the steamer "Ferret" from the Highland Railway Company, ostensibly to take his invalid wife for a cruise in the Mediterranean. Stored in a most elaborate manner—all on credit, of course—she left Milford Haven and made Gibraltar and there one night dropped overboard boats, lifebelts and other gear bearing her name, giving the impression she had foundered. Doubling back into the Atlantic, she was soon effectively disguised with the paint brush, and under the name "Banton" made St. Vincent in the Cape Verde Islands, where she exchanged some bills for stores. Her next port was Santos. Here her more than reasonable freight rates secured her a large coffee cargo for French consignees which she later sold at Capetown for £11,000, of which £8,000 unfortunately for Smith was in bills he could not of course cash. Failing to sell the ship in Mauritius, Smith next set course for Australia under the name "India," which however, failed to deceive the Melbourne authorities, with the result that a surprise police visit led to the arrest of the crew. Purchased by a local steamship company, the ship herself maintained a passenger service along the Australian coast for many years until wrecked about twelve months ago.

That wireless committee investigates broadcast here. What visions this bald announcement inspires! Draughts nights one can crutch over the homely electric heater and enjoy (say) that resuscitated Philharmonic Society's latest concert. Busy shareholders need never bestir them from present labours and yet hear those soothing words with which every Chairman unanimously concludes his "few" remarks: "Dividend warrants are now ready and."

Drowsy afternoons nerve-racked chipans can gently dose away, listening to the pleasant droning which is a Legislative Council debate. The possibilities are infinite.

Erskine Childers, latest cables report, has been executed.

He was an Englishman without a drop of Irish blood in his veins. A nephew of the late Hugh Childers (Gladstone's Chancellor of the Exchequer), he wrote ten years ago—"The Framework of Home Rule," but it was his clever "Riddle of the Sands" which earned him international celebrity. His was the yacht that carried rifles for the Nationalist Volunteers in the early summer of 1914 following the Uster gun-running at Larne. During the war he was in the British naval service, and at its close returned to Irish agitation.

The "Tiger's" tour of the "rights and duties" in the world crisis of each nation; where the same victory made all the Allies equally responsible for the future. And the way he does this is to start another war scare, and stir up the passions of 1914 again. Eighty-one years old, he's incorrigible.

The A.D.C.'s choice of "The Tempest" for their next production is very happy. This play, which is now believed to have been written expressly for the betrothal of the incomparable Queen of Hearts whose name in story is Elizabeth of Bohemia, is the first one in the First Folio of 1623, but chronologically almost the last, if not the very last, that Shakespeare wrote. Magic and music motif, "The Tempest" and, as Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch has expressed it, are redded that none can put them asunder.

That was the chirp of Ariel you heard, as overhead it flew; The farther going, more to dwell And wing our green to woe our blue; But whether note of joy, or knell, Not his own rather singer knew; Nor yet can any mortal tell; Save only that it shivers through; The breast of us a sounded shell, This blood of us a lighted dew.

Truly Shakespeare has clothed this play with enchantment and diffused it with poetic feeling. The A.D.C. has a great opportunity. As the Lord Chancellor hands the King a Someone has suggested hooves as a means of dealing with pirates. And the passengers among whom the desperadoes infested? Someone had better think again.

Dreaming idly of a three bob dollar as I sat in the botanical gardens, I was startled to hear a small child's voice demand plaintively, almost accusingly: "Why don't you get a little girl like me?" And I was so taken aback by this unexpected poser, I had not found an answer when amah recovered possession of her precocious charge.

Imports and exports have (with shipping) the glory of being Hongkong's "life blood" (blessed simile) but the Colony now has a third interest, thus: imports, exports—and interports.

Among other picturesque items, reported that the pirates looted the "Sui An's" bar. Let us borrow Gilbert's eloquence and Sullivan's lyricism: Pour, oh pour the pirate sherry! Fill, oh fill the pirate glass! And to make us more than merry, Let the pirate bumper pass.

GREENFIELD PETITION.

CHIEF JUSTICE'S DECISION.

RECEIVING ORDER MADE.

The Chief Justice (Sir William Ross Davies K.C.) announced his decision this morning to grant the receiving order in respect of Mr Samuel Greenfield's estate which was asked for in the petition presented recently by two stockbrokers, Mr. P. M. N. da Silva and Mr. M. A. Razack. It was the sequel to an unsuccessful application to the "China Provident" shares which Mr. Greenfield had indulged in.

Mr. C. G. Alabaster E.C. (instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist) appeared for the petitioning creditors and Mr. E. J. Zetlyn (instructed by Mr. G. R. H. W. Wood) on behalf of the debtor.

The petition was opposed by the debtor on the following grounds:—

(1) That the petitioners had been guilty of a breach of duty to their clients which should disentitle them to the order asked for.

(2) That the debts alleged were of a gambling and illegal nature and irrecoverable in law.

(3) That no act of bankruptcy had been committed.

Dealing with the last point, His Lordship said he was clearly of opinion that in the case before him there was a clear intention on the part of the debtor to suspend payment of his debts and his creditors, in the terms of the language used by him, could come to no other conclusion.

The Chief Justice quoted a number of authorities on the point raised as to the legality of the debts and said that in his opinion they disposed of the contention that these share transactions, i.e. the sale notes taken in conjunction with the by-laws endorsed on the back, were illegal as wagering contracts.

No authority, His Lordship said in conclusion, was cited to show that any breach of duty if such existed on the part of a petitioning creditor, was a ground for dismissing a petition.

After His Lordship had made an order for a receiving order, Mr. Zetlyn asked that his costs should be allowed out of the estate. Mr. Alabaster objected that the grounds of opposition had been held insufficient but His Lordship said that he would make the order asked for.

CHINA'S NEW TARIFF.

HISTORY OF ITALY'S OBJECTION.

Peking, November 24.

It reported semi-officially that France has notified the Chinese of its readiness to agree to the application for effective five per cent. customs duties. Thus Italy and Japan alone stand out. As regards Japan it is stated necessary legal procedure is proceeding satisfactorily, but the Italian stand is being maintained.

It appears when the Sino-Austrian treaty was signed, Italy raised the question of disposal of three ships belonging to the Trieste company, contending that as Trieste had become Italian territory the ships should be handed over to Italy. China objected and Italy proposed arbitration to which China also objected. When the question of the five per cent. duties arose Italy said that inasmuch as China had refused arbitration regarding the ships, Italy could not agree to the customs increase. —Reuter.

DUELING DE LUXE.

"THE THREE MUSKETEERS."

As a sequel to the production by Douglas Fairbanks of the film version of "The Three Musketeers" which is being shown at the Coronet next week, the latest motion picture colony that centres around Hollywood has been thrilled by a new fact-fencing.

For three months prior to the making of the picture, every player chosen for a part had to take fencing lessons from a former world's champion swordsman. The purpose of this was to minimise the risk of accident during the filming of the production and also to make the swordsmanship look real on the screen. This was particularly necessary in the case of the actors who were to play the parts of the redoubtable trio Athos, Porthos and Aramis who, it will be recalled, do a deal of blade wielding in the course of the story. There are no less than sixteen duels depicted altogether and in one clash Fairbanks, who makes a splendid Athos, was with the help of the doctory musketeers, to take on eight adversaries.

BOMB PLOT.

LOCAL WATCHMAKER'S STRIKE THREATS.

TWO MEN ARRESTED.

In connection with the watchmakers' strike, some jewellers' shops in Gough Street, received "myatronic" threats that unless a settlement was brought about by Friday night, their shops would be blown up.

The police having been informed, detectives were sent out on special duty and on Friday night two men were arrested with bombs in their possession.

About 11.15 p.m., on Friday two Chinese detectives noticed two men proceeding up Gough Street steps. One man carried under his arm what appeared to be a shoe box, while the other carried a gallon tin containing a large quantity of dynamite.

The man with the shoe box was challenged by one of the detectives. When the lid of the box was removed, two bombs made of an empty cigarette tin and an empty fruit can respectively, were found inside. The lids of the tins were tied down with wire and to them were attached fuses about nine inches long. When the lids were removed, inside the tins were found two bottom portions of bottles in which were a stick of dynamite and a detonator. The men were taken into custody.

Yesterday the police took one of the men to No. 400, Shanghai Street, where he lived. His cubicle was searched and two revolvers and nine rounds of ammunition were discovered.

The two men, Ling Sang and Chan Heung, were produced before Mr. R. E. Lindell this morning, charged together with the unlawful possession of the bombs. Chan was also charged with the possession of the revolvers and ammunition.

In asking for a formal remand, Detective Inspector J. Grant told the Magistrate that there would be a further charge of possession of explosives with the intent of causing damage to property to prefer against the defendants at the next hearing.

A remand was given until next Saturday.

PIECE GOODS DISPUTE.

HONGKONG DEADLOCK CONTINUES.

The piece goods dispute still remains at a deadlock although some of the native dealers have signified that they are willing to do business on the old contracts. Apparently, there are about half a dozen or so Chinese dealers who commenced the negotiations and remain obstinate. Meanwhile no new business has been reported but there have been steady clearances of goods previously sold.

The dealers have not been slow to take advantage of the situation; although there are large stocks of "piece goods" lying in the godown, prices have been put up. There is no lack of demand, the only goods that have been cleared to any extent being those required for immediate use. Wing On Street, where some of the piece goods dealers are situated is still full of "cheap sale" posters and this goes to show that they are keen to get rid of their goods.

It has been said that a few importers are ready to meet the dealers by part modification of their contracts but there are one or two clauses that cannot be relaxed except at a great risk. The majority of the importers, especially those with long-standing connections, are of the opinion that business can only be done on the old terms. There is very little probability of the dealers succeeding in making connections with the manufacturers direct or in doing on their own account as most of the standard lines are handled by agents, whose principals would never think of relinquishing the middleman. Then there is the question of bank credits to be arranged and another obstacle is the difficulty in finding representatives to make inspections prior to shipment.

Some dealers have closed the importers' attitude as arbitrary, but it must be remembered that time and again, dealers have, when business was depressed, refused to accept goods or regarded claims under very paltry excuses. There have, also, been instances of importers refusing to entertain claims or offering amounts out of proportion to the loss suffered by deviation from the stipulations on the contracts. Both sides have their arguments without the other. At present, the importers do not want to do business under contracts that may not be sufficient safeguard and the dealers say no.

ARMS ARREST.

KOWLOON WHARF HAUL.

NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE.

Lam Pui and Shek Cheung-look, the two Chinese who were arrested last Saturday in connection with the big haul of arms and ammunition at the Kowloon wharf were yesterday afternoon discharged by Mr. R. E. Lindell on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Chan Yeung, Chinese R. O. No. 62, gave evidence of arrest bearing out Sub-Inspector Pincott's opening statement reported yesterday. The two suitcases in which the arms were found bore labels on which were typewritten "T. Hanson, stateroom No. 114, 'President Cleveland'."

Mr. F. B. Dittman, purser of the ship gave evidence that stateroom No. 114 was not occupied either on the trip to or from Manila. Also, there had never been a passenger named "T. Hanson" on board.

Lam Kan, second runner of the Kin, Edward Hotel, then explained the procedure adopted by him in boarding staterooms. He stated that he carried with him blank cards of the hotel and these would be filled in by patrons whom he succeeded in obtaining, the information written thereon giving the name of the patron, his luggage, etc. When his boarded staterooms there were usually one or two seamen of the hotel's launch accompanying him who would help in removing the patrons' baggage from the ship. The seamen also carried blank cards to be filled in. In this case the defendants boarded the "President Cleveland" with him, and he heard them shout out "A foreign passenger wants us."

He later saw them stopped on the wharf whilst carrying two suit cases. Questioned by the Magistrate witness said it was not an uncommon occurrence for the card to be filled in on the launch after the baggage had been taken on board.

The Magistrate remarked at the conclusion of the evidence that at he agreed with Mr. Dittman's submission because it seemed to him that the importation was complete with the arrival of the ship here. It was a previous offence. He did not think that the defendants, in any case, could be said to aid and abet the importation even if it could be proved that they conveyed the arms ashore knowing what they were. It was doubtful. That being so, only the charge of possession remained.

The evidence was that the men carried the suit cases which were particularly heavy and which they apparently obtained in the course of their ordinary duties. His Worship said there was not sufficient evidence. Sub-Inspector Pincott, who prosecuted, agreed, and the defendants were discharged. His Worship ordered the arms to be confiscated.

The Magistrate remarked at the conclusion of the evidence that at he agreed with Mr. Dittman's submission because it seemed to him that the importation was complete with the arrival of the ship here. It was a previous offence. He did not think that the defendants, in any case, could be said to aid and abet the importation even if it could be proved that they conveyed the arms ashore knowing what they were. It was doubtful. That being so, only the charge of possession remained.

WORLD THEATRE.

"THE OUTSIDE WOMAN"

A fire escape that is decidedly busy with the comings and goings of persons who are most anxious not to meet each other, starts a mythical ball of fun rolling at the World Theatre where the "Outside Woman", the latest Wanda Hawley picture for Keelart opens to-morrow, Sunday for three days' stay.

"The Outside Woman" is a clever domestic comedy, revolving around a giddy little wife whose love of silly things to the junk man gets her in a peck of trouble involving the dwellers in the apartment above, a jealous wife of Spanish extraction and an artist with a penchant for living models. The fire escape really ought to have special mention, as it is of great aid in the desperate plight of the various characters who wish to avoid compromising situations. Wanda Hawley is as easy to look at as usual, and enacts the star role with all that dimpled mischievousness which has brought her such a big share of popularity. Big, goodlooking Clyde Fillmore is convincing as the doctor husband, while Sidney Bracey makes a properly amusing third angle of a most unexpected triangle. A new corner, Rosita Martini, a famous Belgian beauty adds spice as Bracey's wife.

CHURCH NOTES.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY
AFTER TRINITY.

One of the prophecies of Jeremiah is taken for to-morrow's Epistle foretelling Incarnation. The Church has appointed this reading for the last Sunday in her year as a heralding of the Advent preparation for the birth of the Saviour. "The Lord our Righteousness." And when we read this Epistle we must remember that all the Old Testament prophecies connected with the Incarnation are also fore-shadowings of the Day of Judgment.

The Church calls special attention to to-morrow's Gospel for twice in the year she appoints that at Holy Communion, this miracle of the feeding of the five thousand shall be read, seeking to impress upon us its deep spiritual meaning. The people were in a desert place. We are strangers and pilgrims. They needed food. We need the sustaining Life of Christ. Jesus used the material things at hand, the loaves and fishes. He co-operated with the disciples making them the distributors of the food. Now he uses bread and wine and His ministers feed His people in the Sacrament of the Altar.

Our Lord loved a young boy to help Him. He gave all he had and in Christ's hands after the blessing it was changed and became enough food for five thousand hungry people—more than enough, for after they were all quite satisfied twelve large baskets of broken pieces were gathered up. God alone knows the value of what we bring to Him and in His hands it can be blessed a thousand times. Still, to day, He uses bread, blessing and changing it, giving under its lowly form His own Body, and saying to all who come to His feast "I am the Bread of Life, he that cometh to Me shall never hunger and he that believeth on Me shall never thirst."

St. Andrew is the Patron Saint of Scotland. He died on November 30 and this day is usually kept by a cessation of work, for foreign missions, as he was the first missionary. He first found his own brother and said to him "We have found Messias." After Christ's Ascension, Andrew preached through Scythia, Sebastopol, Byzantium, and many other places. At last a suffering martyrdom at Patras. The Proconsul of Achaia was visiting Patras at this time and a dog howling at the people were being converted to Christianity, his anger was roused and he used every kind of cruelty to punish those who refused to worship idols, his anger reaching fever point when he discovered that his wife Maximilla and her brother had been cured by St. Andrew of dangerous diseases and also embraced the Faith.

He sent for Andrew and commanded him to offer sacrifices to the deities of the Empire. St. Andrew replied that every day he offered the Sacrifice of the Immaculate Son of God, so he was thrown into prison. But the people loved him so much that there would have been a riot had not St. Andrew begged them to follow the example of the humility and meekness of Jesus. Sentence of death being passed on him he was scourged, seven lashes whipping his naked body. Then he was fastened to a cross, not by nails but by cords so that his death might be a more lingering one. As he approached the cross he cried out "Hail, precious Cross, that hast been consecrated by the Body of my Lord, and adorned with His limbs as with rich jewels. I come to thee, exulting and glad, receiving thee with joy into my arms." He hung on the cross for two days and two nights, all the while teaching and instructing the people, also praying that he might die for the people who kept on begging the Consul to spare his life, might be successful, and he longed, as did all the Saints, to seal his confession with his blood. His prayer was granted and he died peacefully on the last day of November, it was in the early half of the Fourth century that Scotland honoured him as her Patron. His relics were brought to Scotland and on the site where they were buried, the Cathedral of St. Andrew was subsequently built.

"All that is great is born of silence." Reading of retreats at Home makes one wish that here in Hongkong people had more opportunity of attending Retreats, or failing that "Quiet Days," for it has been truly said "The spiritual life consists in a series of fresh beginnings." It is in the silence of a Retreat that the listening soul hears the voice of God, calling him to renewed love and service, and no one can doubt the value of such times of withdrawal from the world, (that those returning may serve the world better) who recalls the words of Christ "Come ye apart into a desert place and rest awhile."

What is Conversion? A most interesting discussion on this subject took place in Sheffield during the Congress, the meeting being divided in opinion as to the normality of conversion. The Archbishop of York tried to bring the two aspects together by saying that the whole Christian life was a process of conversion. "There was no need," he said, "to discuss whether those who had had a sudden conversion had some thing to be ashamed of, nor whether those who had not had it were defective."

A very different view from the usually accepted one, was presented by Dr. Inge who dealt with the historic conversions of St. Augustine and St. Paul. Speaking of the latter he said, "to suppose that a vision in the sky altered his whole character would surely be to disparage the greatness of one of the greatest men who ever lived." Again he spoke of conversions in the Salvation Army, saying "Most of these conversions are reclamations of drunkards who resolve then and there never to touch another drop and often keep their resolution. But as a rule, conviction of sin is less important as an element in conversion than is often supposed. The attraction of goodness is felt first then comes the will to realize it."

Dr. Brown, a well known physician and specialist on mental diseases, disagreed with Dr. Inge that conversion was unnecessary in religious experience, defining it "as the process which begins in a man when he begins to appreciate what is meant by the divine."

Dr. Watts Ditchfield, the Diocesan Missioner of Sheffield, Mr. Pike Pease, President of the Church Army, and others of great experience addressed the meeting, but perhaps the most striking speech was that delivered by Dr. Loel. He told them that it is not easy to convert men, that a character is needed in which a sinner can place his confidence. He gave the story of a poor woman whose daughter had gone wrong and who never afterwards looked the door at night, in the hope her child would return and so said he, "must we keep the doors of our hearts unlocked?"

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almanac Office in London from the results of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1905-9.

This one of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty chart, which has been found to be 4 feet 1 inch below mean sea-level.

To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 2 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Leamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 1 foot 1 inch to the height given in the table.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

THE TALKING SCOOTER.

Alec had been given a scooter for his birthday and he was so pleased with it that he hardly liked it to be out of his sight. He took it to school and there left it outside in a safe place where he could see it from the window and when he left it outside his house he tied it up to a fence with a piece of rope. His friends were allowed to ride on it in turns as a treat for he was very generous with all his belongings, however fond of them, he was.

One night soon after he had gone to bed for no reason whatever he suddenly woke up.

The moon was shining brightly so that outside it was almost as light as day. "What fun it would be to go for a run on my scooter," thought Alec. "Everyone must be asleep and I could go so fast without bumping into anyone or anything on the way."

This seemed to be rather a good idea and he had half put one foot out of bed when he thought how cold it might be outside and that he would have to put on his clothes, which seemed rather a nuisance.

Then he thought again of the delightful feeling of rushing along on the scooter, up hill and down hill and tearing round corners, very likely without meeting a soul. Without any more hesitation he sprang out of bed, pulled on his socks, slipped into his clothes and ran downstairs, doing up buttons as he went.

In the porch verandah by the front door stood the scooter and Alec quickly unlocked the front door and lifted it down the steps. Then off he went, enjoying every minute of it and by and by he was going down hill and was tearing along at full speed. It was a windy night and great gusts blew by him, yet he seemed to go even faster than the wind.

On and on he went until he was almost breathless. Then to his great surprise the scooter began to sing in a low humming voice.

"On, on, on I fear, Rushing, scooting everywhere, Faster than the fastest wind, Trees and houses left behind. Master, hold on very tight Or you might get such a fright, Now we fly across the sea, Hold on very tight to me."

Alec was so astonished that he clutched the scooter hard and it was a lucky thing that he did so for the next minute it went right up in the air with a bound and Alec saw that they had left the land and far beneath them, the waves were dashing on the shore.

On they went until Alec felt that he would drop off any minute and his hands were becoming quite numb. Then, to his relief, they were back on the land again, gliding smoothly along.

They went down long straight roads with rows of poplar trees on each hand and in the distance he could see a number of windmills.

"Oh I wish that I could see some people," said Alec to himself, "It seems rather lonely here."

When he had started out he had wanted to have the whole place to himself but now he had grown rather tired of it.

Just as he said this, strangely enough, he passed by a cottage and the door opened and a woman came out and looked up and down the road as if she were expecting someone. She was dressed in bright blue and she had on a big white apron and a white cap which came down over her head like a bonnet and she wore wooden shoes which went clip-clop as she walked.

"Why," gasped Alec, "It is a Dutch woman. I must be in Holland, Fancy having come all that way!"

He tried to stop his scooter so that he could speak to the Dutch woman and he pulled up with such a jerk that he pitched right over on to his head. Everything seemed to go black and when he opened his eyes again he was back in his own bed and Holland and the Dutch woman had disappeared.

RIDDLE-ME-BEE.

My first is in second but not in first, My next is in cup but not in thirst, In honey my third one may be found, Whilst my fourth is in oval and also in round, My fifth is in ant but not in fly, My sixth is in lemon you'll find if you try, My last is in present, not by and by.

My whole Father Christmas may bring you one day, And then on your—your—your ride far away.

The answer I nearly let out as you see! When you've guessed it just please kindly write and tell me.

ASSOCIATION MEETING.

A meeting of the Hongkong Football Association was held at Victoria Barracks last evening. Mr. R. J. Wilton presided over a large attendance of representatives of the affiliated clubs, and many referees.

Mr. F. T. James, hon. secretary, informed the meeting that Mr. C. H. Blake had resigned his position as Division II Secretary.

The Sub-committee withdrew from the League.

Donovan, R.G.A. was transferred to the Hongkong Club and Banner, Club to Kowloon.

Woodman, "Tamar," was permitted to play for Kowloon; Sadler, "Magnolia," to play for "Tamar"; Derry and Chilton, R.A.M.C. to play for United A.C.

Davis and Carter, "Amrosco," were reinstated to Division II.

The match played at Weikwei between "Hawkins" and "Despatch" was allowed to stand as a League match, the result being a draw, one all.

A claim for the points by the First Auxiliaries against the University for failing to turn out on November 11, was not approved; the date for the match to be re-arranged by the Secretary and the University to pay Referees' fees.

The South China Secretary reported that the goal net had been repaired, following the report of the referee in the Club-South China match.

Mr. Clifford promised to lay the facts before his Association, on his return to Shanghai, and to communicate the results in due course.

A report on the conduct of Carter, of the "Despatch," was referred to the B. F. C. Board. A report on the conduct of four players in the South China "Tamar" match was read and the Secretaries of both Clubs regretted the incidents and promised to bring the report to the notice of the referees.

It was decided to play the international match Scotland, v. England, on the Club ground on Boxing Day, in aid of Local Charities.

Callus? Peel It Off Quickly!

Nothing On Earth Like "Get-It"
For Corns and Calluses.

A spot of thickened skin on the bottom of your foot which so often makes walking an agony, is as easily removed by wonderful "Get-It" as any hard or soft corn anywhere on your foot. Look at this picture—

A few drops of "Get-It" did the trick. The callus comes loose from the true skin. No irritation whatever. You peel the callus right off just like a banana—without painfully. "Get-It" does the same thing to any corn, without the use of sticky plasters, irritating salves, greasy ointments or troublesome saws. There is no trouble—no knife, no scissors to use. "Get-It" is used by millions because it is common sense, and it never fails. Try it, you'll be convinced.

"Get-It" the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle of all chemists and stores. Sold by Dr. Lawrence &
Co., Chicago, U. S. A.
